Sculpture Professor Popular Around the Country

Fame just seems to come easily to Mass Art Professor George Greenamyer! This past summer George completed two major commissions for the " One Percent for Art" Programs. One commission was in Lynn, Massachusetts and the other was in Toledo, Ohio. George's work was also included in the prestigious juried sculpture show held at Chesterwood in Stockbridge, Massachusetts.

Professor Greenamyer also was an instructor at a three week session dealing with the theory and method of forging. The classes were held at the Haystack Mountain School in Deer Isle, Maine.

George is presently working on three large commissions for the cities of Cambridge, Massachusetts; Wilmington, Delaware; and Milwaukee, Wisconsin. He has also become a finalist for two projects in Maryland.

Congratulations to an always busy Professor Greenamyer!!!

Mass Art Soars in SAT Statistics

In the October, 1987 Board of Regents monthly Chancellor's Report, there were SAT statistics compiled which our College can be very proud of.

Of the thirteen state colleges, the Massachusetts College of Art has had the highest increase in their enrolled students' SAT scores from 1984 to 1987. The increase was 73 points!! No state college comes within twenty points of that figure.

In fact, overall, Mass Art ranks third out of thirteen in terms of highest average student SAT scores (combined math and verbal).

North Hall Gallery Proposals Sought

The Exhibitions Department is requesting Proposals for the North Hall Gallery. The department is now scheduling for the upcoming academic year 1988-89 as well as for 1989-90 and beyond.

The deadline for proposals will be November 25, 1987. Proposals should be delivered to the Exhibitions Office (T538) by 5:00pm that day.

The Exhibitions Committee will want to know as much about the proposed show as possible, so supporting materials such as catalogues, photos, slides, resumes, and expected costs (beyond invitations, mailing, and reception) should be included. If there are any questions or details please contact Jeffrey Keough, Director of Exhibitions at x550.

Panel & Potluck Tonight

Tonight, Tuesday October 27, 6:00pm-7:30pm, there will be a panel discussion and potluck dinner in the Arnheim Resource Room.

The Artist/Teacher: A Balancing Act will present four artist/teachers from various levels and specifications sharing their artwork, their strategies, and talking about the challenge of balancing active studio production with teaching.

The panelists will be :

Judith Austin - painter, potter, weaver as well as art instructor at the Shady Hill School.

Claudine Bing - painter and Assistant Professor of Art Education at the Massachusetts College of Art

Jeff Melzack - painter, artist in watercolor and colored pencils, and special needs art professional at Cotting School. He was also the National Art Education Association's Teacher of the Year,1987.

Elaine Wong - painter and art instructor at Boston English High School.

Following the panel discussion will be the potluck dinner. The Arnheim Resource Room is located across the hall from the North Hall Gallery.
